LAEM SAK TOURISM COMMUNITY

Krabi

Centuries ago, the impoverished Hokkien people of China were forced to emigrate south, eventually arriving and settling on the eastern coast of Southern Thailand. At the same time, Muslim migrants from Malaysia had arrived on the west coast and the Thai Buddhists traveled from the north. This coming together of peoples shaped what is now known as Laem Sak district, where cross-cultural marriages between villagers of different nationalities and religions resulted in the facilitation of goods and cultural exchange.

Explore the community, learning all about the fishermen's way of life and other skills unique to Laem Sak.

ACTIVITIES

- Take a kayak trip to explore mangrove forest.
- Cruise around Ao Leuk Marine Park to explore fisherman way of life, fish and lobster farms.
- Learn how to make shrimp paste and shrimp paste fried rice.
- Plant orchids at Khao Chang Mob.
- Learn how to make batik clothes.
- Take a boat ride to explore prehistoric sea grapes.
- Experience the fisherman's life and how to plant sea grapes.
- Learn how to make desserts from local ingredients: coconuts and nipa palm leaves.
